THE CAUCASIAN'S SALUTATORY.
[From issue of Feb. 6th, 1903.]
To the Public:—
THE CAUCASIAN makes its bow to day to the people of North Carolina with its first issue from Goldsboro. It will be a State paper, it will be independent in politics. There is a demand in every county, from the mountains to the sea, for just such a paper. Since the election our circulation has doubled. We locate at Goldsboro to get better mail facilities to supply the demand. The paper will be devoted to the interest of the farmers of North Carolina. That does not mean that the paper will be against the interest of any other class of our citizens, but rather that it will help to build up every honest business and profession through the prosperity of the farming and laboring people. In a State like this there can be no permanent material prosperity in any line that is not based on agricultural prosperity. Other business may prosper for a while at the expense of agriculture, but under such conditions it is only a matter of time for them all to tumble to ruin together. That wise old philosopher, Aesop, tells us of a goose that laid a golden egg each day. The owner, prompted by his greed, killed the goose to get all the eggs at once. He lost all, he found no golden eggs and had no goose. Business men, professional men, lend us your ears! The situation now confronting us is just as plain. You cannot long prosper if agriculture is on the decline. In fact, you are already feeling the truth of this. The lawyers are without practice, the merchants are without customers and the doctors cannot get a fair reward for their services, and so on. Every big business house is failing, yet a fitting protection against ruin is being put in the hands of the people by the State. The people in town and in country; the man at his desk and the man at the workshop must come together against a common enemy. The reforms now demanded by the people would lower taxation, put money in circulation and stop the drain to the monopolistic centers. The farmer and laborer would get a just profit for his labor and products, the merchant could well pay for his largely increased litigation and the doctor would be as happy as his patient relieved of pain. We shall labor unceasingly with all the talents God has given us to bring about such results, and to this end we ask and have a right to expect your hearty co-operation. Yours for better times, MARION BUTLER.

The above appeared in THE CAUCASIAN one year ago to-day. We re-publish it for two reasons, 1st, to say that we stand now where we stood then and for the same reasons; 2nd, because the events of the past year have fully justified the above appeal to the people.

The tone of the Democratic press of the State would indicate that the machine is getting alarmed. The time for another election is drawing near. They remember the promises they made to the people and they know that not a single pledge has been performed. All they asked was a chance. They have done nothing but now have the check to ask for another chance. They say that they are now making their appeals to the people to suspend judgment, and close by saying that there is no hope through any source but us—the machine. The logic of their argument is that the people are dogs who must be taught to lick the hands that smite them.

Possess your soul in patience, not the patience that begets indifference and kills zeal, but the patience that nerve you for a steady and determined and if need be a long fight. We hope victory is near at hand, but let it be far or near the people must never give up. It is a fight to the death between the money and the people. If the dollar wins it will be another generation before the people can organize for another fight, in the meantime the money power will be daily gaining and forging its chains of oppression heavier and binding them tighter and closer. The situation appeals to our every patriotic impulse. If we can not get justice now, what hope is there for your children and grandchildren?

Joe Caldwell says that he is afraid that the Bond issue that Mr. Cleveland proposes will hurt the party in the South. This is the whine of a servile party organ. If a bond issue is wrong, why does not Mr. Caldwell condemn it, and brand as traitors to the people the men and the party guilty of the crime?

One significant sign of the gathering storm is the deep solicitude felt about Simmons' confirmation by the Senate. His rejection will have a most disastrous effect upon the organization of the Democratic party in the State. The talk here in some quarters that it will solidify the party is all nonsense. A very different story is heard here, and it is backed up by a most desperate attempt on the part of party leaders to break down Vance's opposition to him. Up to this time all effort has been a waste of time and protest. Senator Vance is now in Florida, and word comes back that he is

HEALTH IS GREATLY IMPROVED.
He contemplates an early return to Washington, when the Simmons matter, if not already disposed of, will receive his personal attention.

The opinion is expressed, however, that Simmons' nomination will be withdrawn; that he will become a candidate for the congressional nomination, and will incidentally assume the management of Ransom's campaign, expecting to be Ransom's legatee in the event of a Democratic anti-Ransom legislature. Grainger, of Lenoir, who was strongly endorsed for the collectorship, is here, and a day or two previous he was proceeded by Van Richardson and Sol Weill. Weill has big influence with the "boss" and he has a scheme in hand other than that of the chairmanship of the

STATE DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.
Besides astuteness as a politician and a plottish pocket-book he has ambition that nothing short of a term or two in congress will satisfy. It is claimed for him that he has a "dead cinch" on the Cape Fear machine and that he has given the "boss" certain assurances which makes the Waddell, Oldham and other opposition of but little consequence.

In the selection of Simmons' successor Ransom will be largely controlled by the advice of Weill, Richardson, and Tom Skinner, and it is not improbable that Skinner will be the man. A whisper is heard to this effect, and Skinner remains here with look of expectancy and anticipation on his face. He was popular in congress, and his appointment as collector would be a splendid political strategy on the part of Senator Ransom. The "boss" is not spending sleepless nights and lying with his handsome face to the wall in the early morning, "just for the fun of it." He has the highest qualities of a fighter—never realizing defeat until overwhelmingly vanquished. He thinks to-day that no serious opposition to him exists in the State. The idea of his superb invincibility never leaves him for a single moment. That's what appears on the surface.

At last, and to the surprise of all, he seems deeply depressed, but that is due, it is alleged, to distress about JERNIGAN'S APPOINTMENT.
It is understood that Jernigan can have Buck Jones' dead shoes, but he is not hankering for a funeral at the expense of the State Department. He declines to consider Shanghai. The place is a graveyard and Jernigan is too good and useful a citizen to be sacrificed in that way. The Sweden-Norway mission ought to have been tendered him, but, instead, a Washington man, who hasn't voted in twenty years and who was forced to resign the Fish commission-ership a year or two ago, was appointed. What Jernigan will get is unknown; inquiry at the State Department does not show that he is slated for anything. If not soon placed, it is said, that he will return to the newspaper field; will revive the "Intelligencer" and will advocate clean politics. Senator Ransom alone has any recognition at the White House and he is responsible for the appointments and disappointments of the administration, and it seems incredible that such men as Jernigan are overlooked unless it is due to want of zeal and persistency in urging their appointments.

REPORT IN WILLIAMS-SETTLE CASE was filed yesterday. It is an exhaustive, conclusive presentation of the case covering twenty-two pamphlet pages. It was prepared by Mr. Poynter, of Kentucky, one of the ablest lawyers in the House, and leaves not an inch of ground for Williams to stand upon. Every position and defense assumed by him in the contest is indisputably refuted and caustically condemned. The decision of the Supreme court of North Carolina in Harris vs. Scarborough is adduced as "the opinion of a divided court" and the reasoning in the dissenting opinion by Justice Clarke commended and approved, analogously. Every point in Settle's brief is sustained. No majority report may be submitted. Mr. Woodard may submit some kind of a protest but will not contest the case in the House. He has made a good fight, has stubbornly disputed every point in the case, but the most casual reading of Judge Poynter's report will show how utterly hopeless was Williams' contest.

JONATHAN EDWARDS.

IS THIS CORRECT?
The Democratic party is pledged to a tariff for revenue only. That is they promise the people to raise enough money by the tariff for the expenses of the government economically and honestly administered. Then why does not the party get a tariff bill that will just do this?

Then it would wipe out the "gougers," gaugers, revenue collectors, "red-legged grasshoppers," and the whole gang that make up the "infernal revenue" business? Then it would prevent the claimed necessity for a bond issue to put a future and growing debt upon the country.

To get up a tariff bill that does not raise enough revenue is as great a crime as to get up a bill that raises too much revenue, and indeed a greater crime, if bonds must be issued to make up the deficit. The belief is growing among the people and that too among the strongest tariff reformers and best Jeffersonian Democrats that this Wilson tariff bill was purposely arranged to make a bond issue apparently necessary.

P. S. Let the voter take note of the fact that under the "robber" McKinley tariff that the people paid as they went, but under the Wilson tariff that they not only pay a heavy protection, but also are getting in debt, which debt with interest added must soon be paid by larger taxes.

WILL SOME OLD PARTY MAN ANSWER?
When the government issues bonds, to raise money to meet its expenses, these bonds are a debt, that must be paid at some future time with interest added. Instead of issuing bonds, why not issue treasury notes, which are redeemed at some future time—same time bonds will have to be paid? Would there not be two advantages in doing this?

First, Since bonds will not circulate as money, and since there is not enough money in circulation, the treasury notes which would circulate would help business, trade and every industry.

Second, When the day of payment comes the people could have the taxes to pay the debt much better, (a) because there would be no interest to pay in addition to the debt, (b) and because the addition to the currency that the treasury notes would make would help business so that every one could be in a position to pay the tax much easier.

Will some member of either of the old parties answer?
P. S. Let the voter take note of the fact that the only way that the government has of redeeming the bonds is by taxing the people, and it would redeem the treasury notes the same way. Are you in favor of high taxes or low taxes?

WHAT NAME FOR THIS?
There was a speech election in the fourteenth and fifteenth congressional districts of New York City on the 30th, of Jan., caused by Col. Jno. R. Fellows, who resigned from Congress to accept the office of District Attorney, and Hon. Aashel P. Fitch, who resigned his seat in congress to accept the position of comptroller of New York City.

In 1892, the Democrats in the fourteenth district had a plurality of 8,825. Last week the Republican candidate was elected in the fourteenth district by a plurality of 984. A falling off, of 9,809 votes from Democratic ranks in a little more than one year. In 1892, the fifteenth district elected a Democrat by a plurality of 11,863. Last week the Democratic candidate was elected by a plurality of 4,687. A falling off since '92 of 7,176 votes. Both of these have been a strong Democratic Districts for years. This shows that the people are dissatisfied, and in the North they are jumping from the frying pan into the fire by going from the Democratic to the Republican party. But in the South and West, where the reform movement is being agitated, the People's party will receive this great influx of dissatisfied voters.

In conclusion, The Democrats say that the People's party is dying out, when it made large gains in every State where elections were held last fall. If that is what they style "dying out," we would like to know what name they will institute for their decaying party.

The Editor-in-Chief of THE CAUCASIAN is now in Topeka, Kansas, attending the National convention of the Farmers' Alliance. He will return the latter part of this week or the first of next. He will write up the meeting for the next issue of THE CAUCASIAN. Try to send in a new subscriber for that issue. If your time is out be sure to renew at once, so you will not miss next issue.

A tariff for "deficiency only" is the size of the Wilson bill, with an issue of Bonds to make up the deficiency. If tariff is bad, tariff and bonds is worse.

RANSOM OR JARVIS?
TOM SKINNER BOLTS "THE BROTHER-IN-LAW COMBINATION" AND DECLARES OPENLY THAT RANSOM WILL CARRY EVERY COUNTY IN THE FIRST DISTRICT EXCEPT PITT.

JARVIS IS MORE CONCERNED ABOUT THE STATE THAN ABOUT THE SENATORIAL ELECTION.
HARVEY SKINNER WILL BE A CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS AND WILL SWEEP THE DISTRICT.

Tom Skinner may succeed Simmons And that may account for the Ransom milk in his campaign—Senator Vance Rapidly Convinced and Expected to Return to Washington soon—Report in the Williams-Settle Case Unanimous, Exhaustive and Conclusive against Williams.

(From Our Special Correspondent in Washington.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Tom Skinner, a prominent member of "the brother-in-law combination," is an out-spoken, vociferous, hair-lifting, snorting Ransom man. He is dead against BROTHER-IN-LAW JARVIS, is not on speaking terms (politically) with Louis Latham and Harvey Skinner. What is going on in the district he does not know, but he does know that Ransom will carry every county in the district except possibly Pitt. He is a Jarvis man, he says, with Ransom out of the way, but that alternative in his opinion, will never happen. He is enthusiastically for Ransom and, in that respect, differs from almost every North Carolina Democrat who comes here and has an opinion to air on the Senatorial situation.

THE DIRT OF OPINION
looks to Ransom's retirement from the race. His candidacy, it is asserted, sustained as it is and will be by Federal office holders—internal revenue officers and country postmasters—will make the Democratic campaign odious and seriously imperil the little chance that is left of electing a Democratic machine legislature. He is getting daily hints and advice from disinterested sources along this line and like the patriotic and stalwart Democrat, Col. Kope Elias, he may retire "in the interest of party harmony." In fact, those very near him assert that he has already prepared

HIS FAREWELL ADDRESS, and that it will find timely delivery sometime during the coming debate in the Senate on the Wilson tariff bill. A great exigency demands this sacrifice at his hands, and he is coming off apace, and "there are scores of able and brilliant young men" in the State, ready and willing to assume the grave responsibilities of Senatorial life. They ought to have a chance, he says. If there is such a thing as appreciation "the scores of able and brilliant young men" ought to experience a sense of profound gratitude, but it would not be wise in them to forget that "eternal vigilance" is the price of a seat in the United States Senate.

THE TWIN ALTERNATIVES.
For many congresses Tom Skinner and Louis Latham succeeded each other by alternation in the First district. The Farmers' Alliance broke up this little arrangement and elected former Branch. It is now Branch's time to retire and he will be succeeded, from all indications, by the brilliant, gifted Harvey Skinner, who is destined to lead in the House, if elected, the Southern reform movement. The next congress will mark distinctly the revolutionary era in sectional and national politics, and the great opportunity will be presented to young men of Skinner's courage and brains. Skinner and Louis Latham are law partners and two more gifted men cannot be found in the borders of the State. Latham was here last week and he is just as

ARDENT A JARVIS MAN
as brother-in-law Tom Skinner is an enthusiastic for Ransom. Of Jarvis's candidacy and campaign for the Senate, he speaks not boastfully, but cautiously and confidently. Jarvis is an astute politician, as everybody knows, and is managing his own campaign. His progress, Latham says, is not being proclaimed on the house-tops, but is eminently satisfactory, so to speak. Gov. Jarvis, he says, is more concerned about the election of a Democratic legislature than about his own election to the United States Senate. It requires very little thinking and daily observation, he says, reflectively, to discover a most extraordinary party exigency and a consequent vast amount of peril to Democratic supremacy in the State. From the Democratic standpoint the political outlook in the State is not rosy with hope. Public sentiment is rapidly crystallizing into a characteristic periodic revolution which makes the overthrow of "machine politics" and its twin monstrosity "bossism," necessary to self-preservation and the vindication of common manhood.

SIGNS OF THE COMING STORM.
One significant sign of the gathering storm is the deep solicitude felt about Simmons' confirmation by the Senate. His rejection will have a most disastrous effect upon the organization of the Democratic party in the State. The talk here in some quarters that it will solidify the party is all nonsense. A very different story is heard here, and it is backed up by a most desperate attempt on the part of party leaders to break down Vance's opposition to him.
